Indian's attack

The screams and the cries,
Some live and some die,
The hearts are pounding,
The Indians surrounding,
You can feel the tears in your eyes

Lucy Prince

She was only five when a group of men came and sought her She was only five when they brought her
For some others, they were slaughtered
She no longer was a daughter
Her whole life was changed and for sure did it alter

Lucy's Life

Lucy prince saw the bars fight it made her heart feel heavy she he knew what she saw wasn't right and it was all messy.

She used to be a slave until her husband bought her free and now she is enslaved and living happy in glee.

But when her husband died
she would visit his grave
she really cried and his land she had to save.

And when she fought for his land .
She had won and now she is all glad.

Who thought it was her proclaimed duty
To take back her husband's land
She had it in the palm of her hand
But the Vermont Supreme Court was discriminatory

The Amazing Poet

Lucy Prince was a wonderful poet
She wrote about events that happened in her lifetime
Her words were so descriptive
Her poems get passed down to generation to generations
Her words are so detailed It's almost like you are there in the moment watching it on a tv Lucy Prince is a wonderful poet
